Diverses Mélodies Nobles. Élevées et Héroïques. pour très grand ensemble

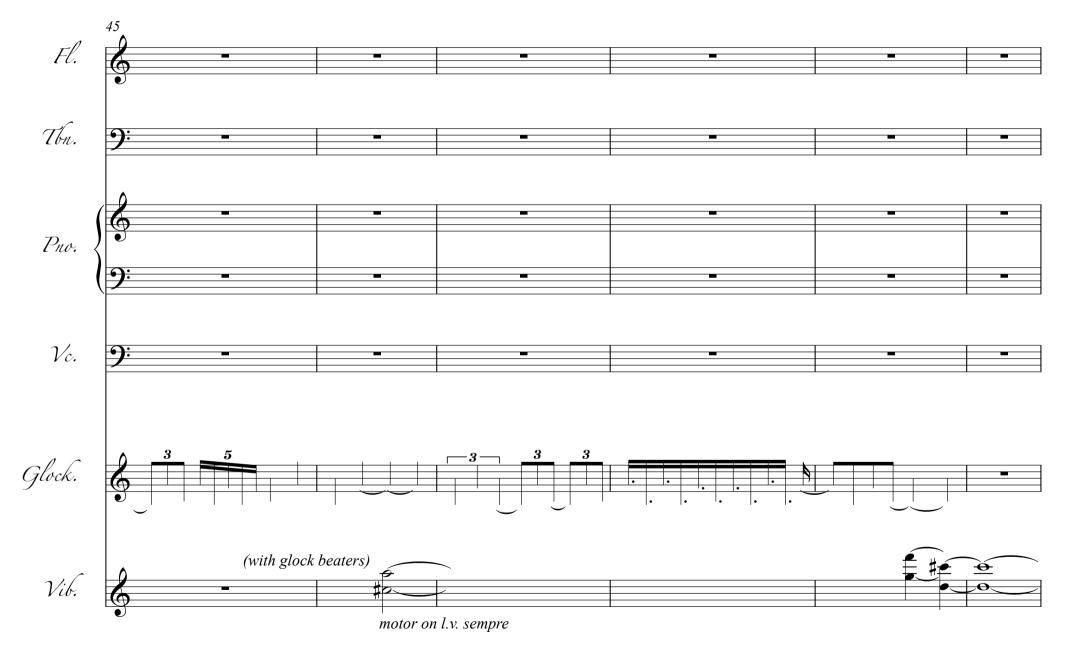

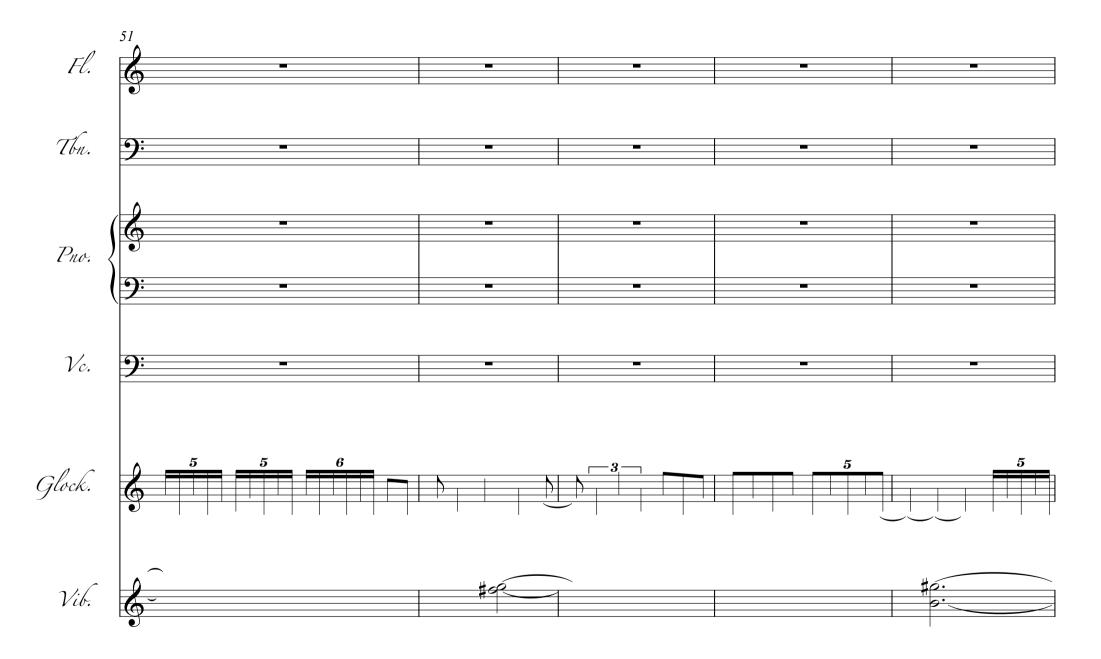

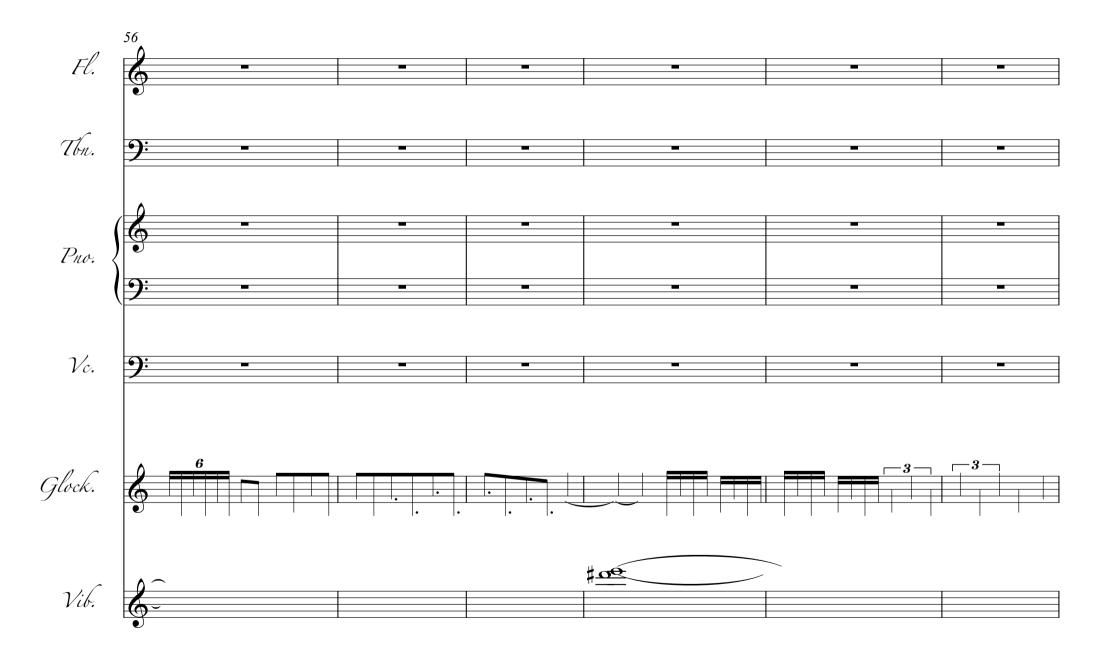

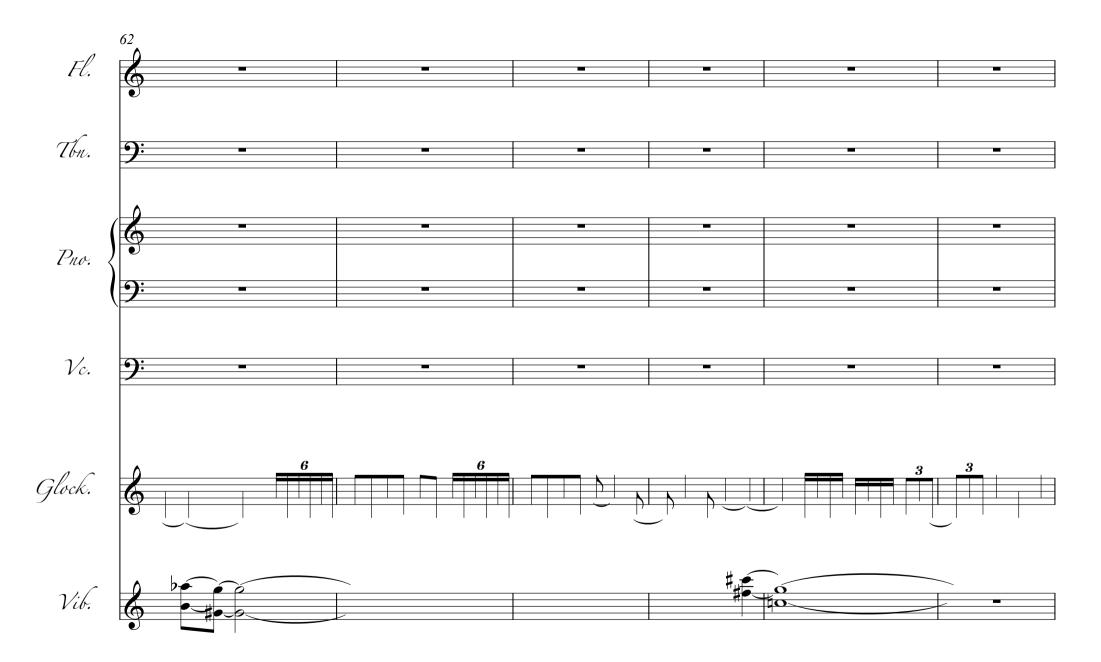

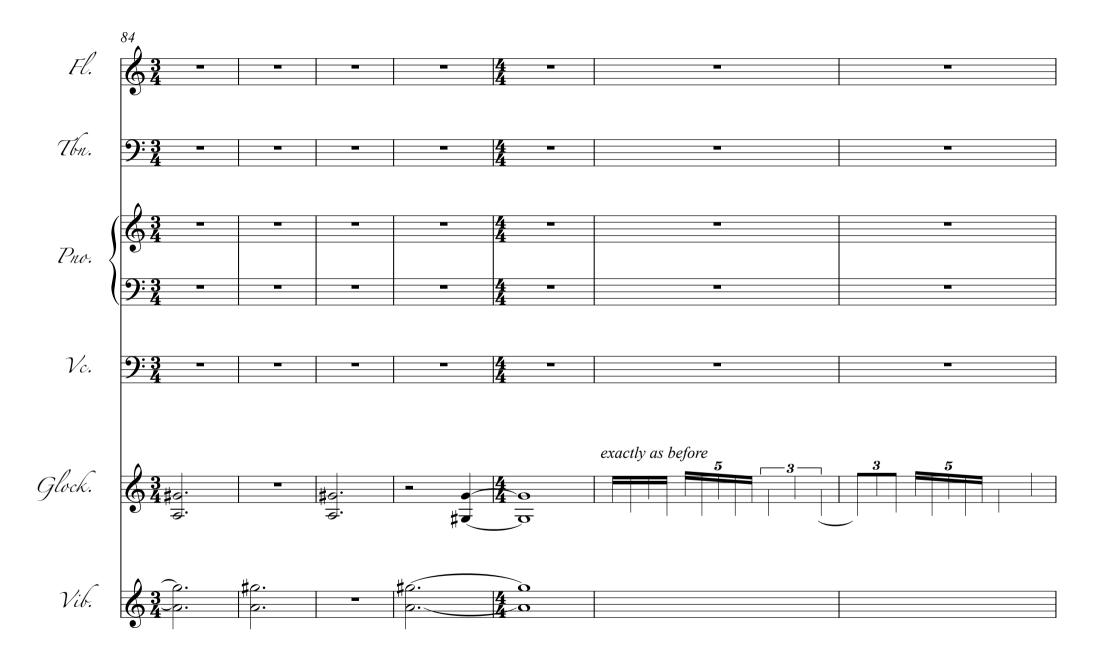

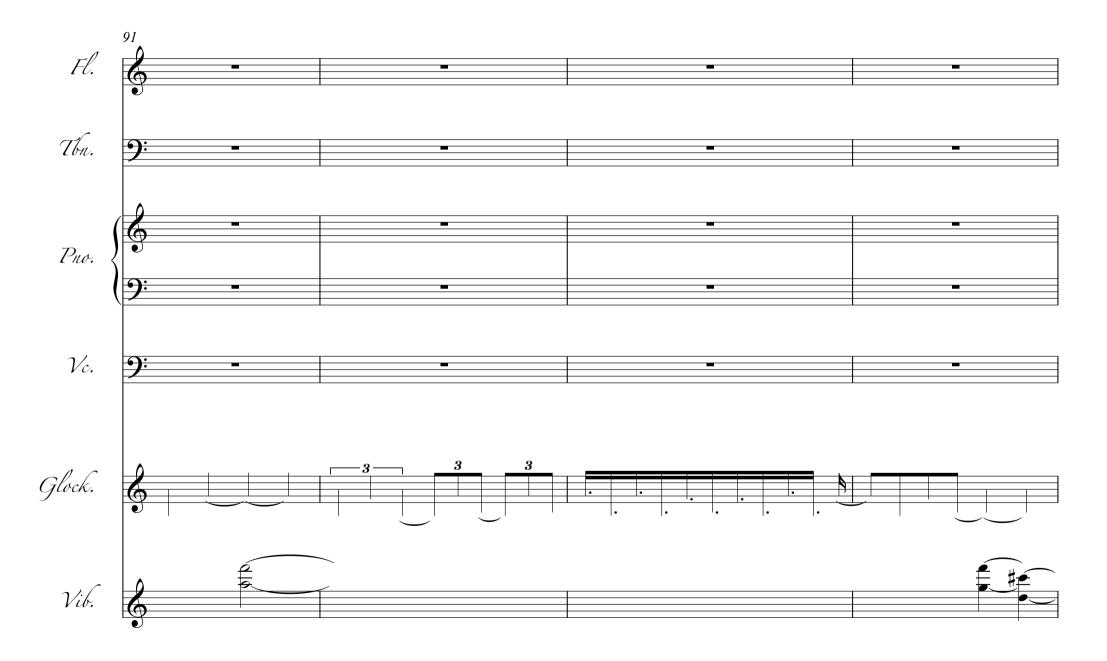

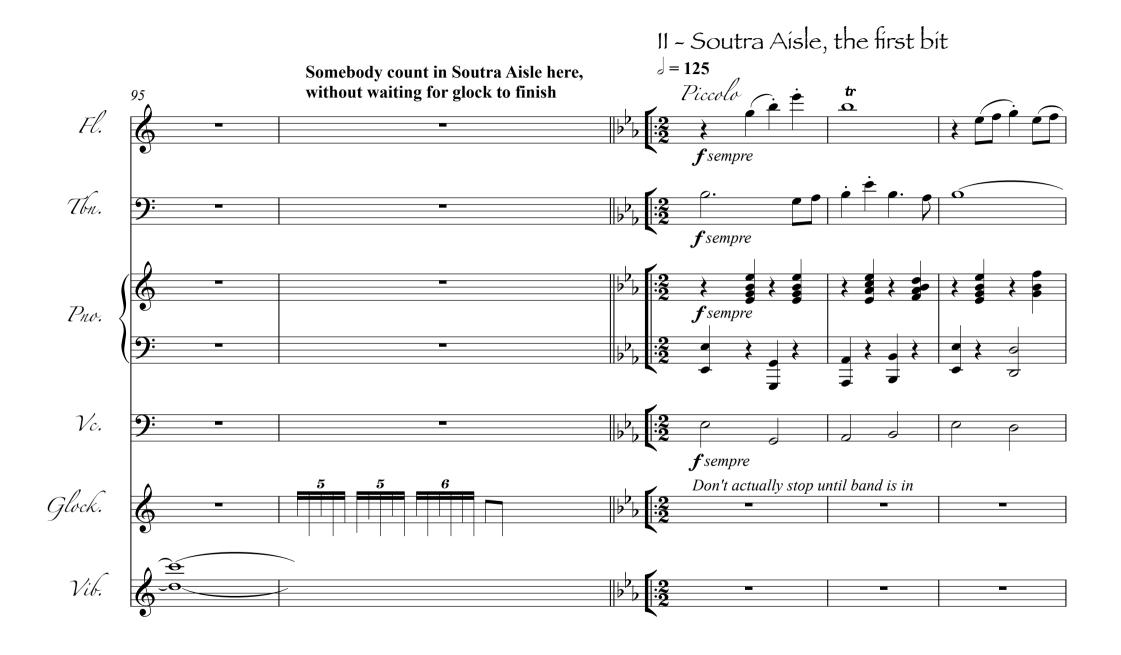

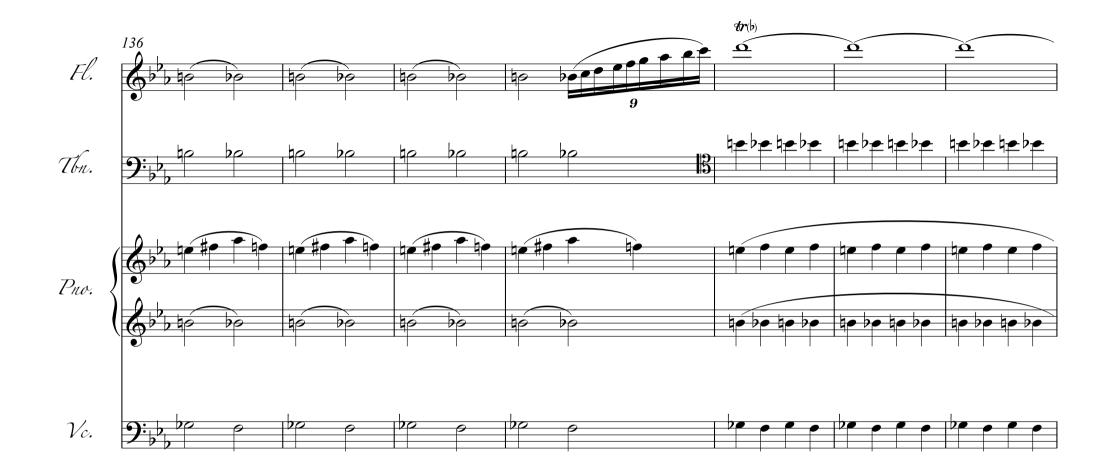

Play 3X, taking Coda during 3rd time through  $V_c$ .

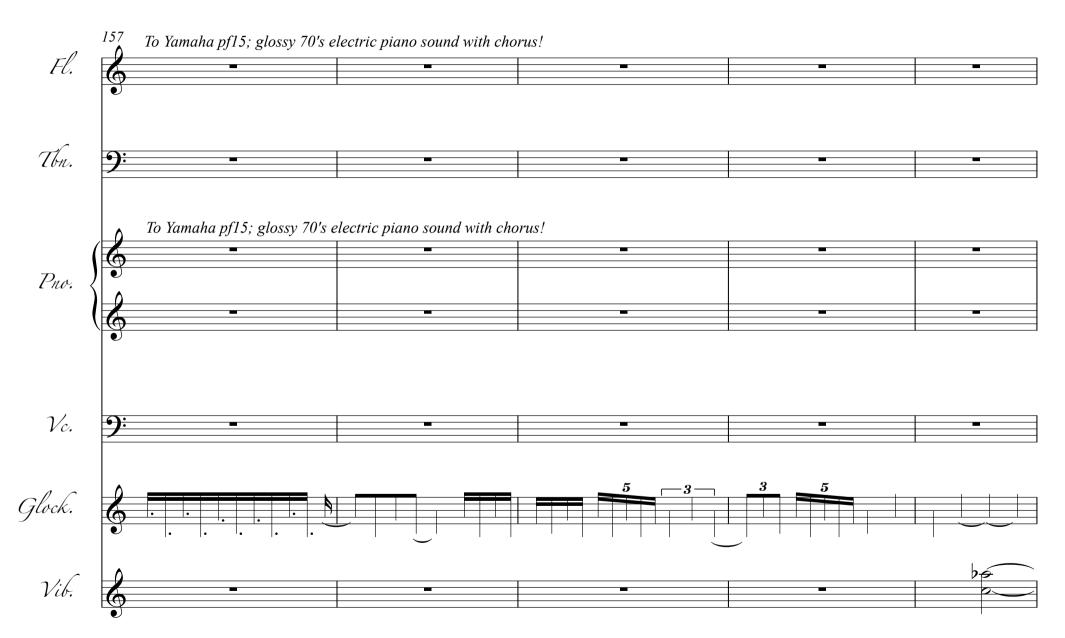

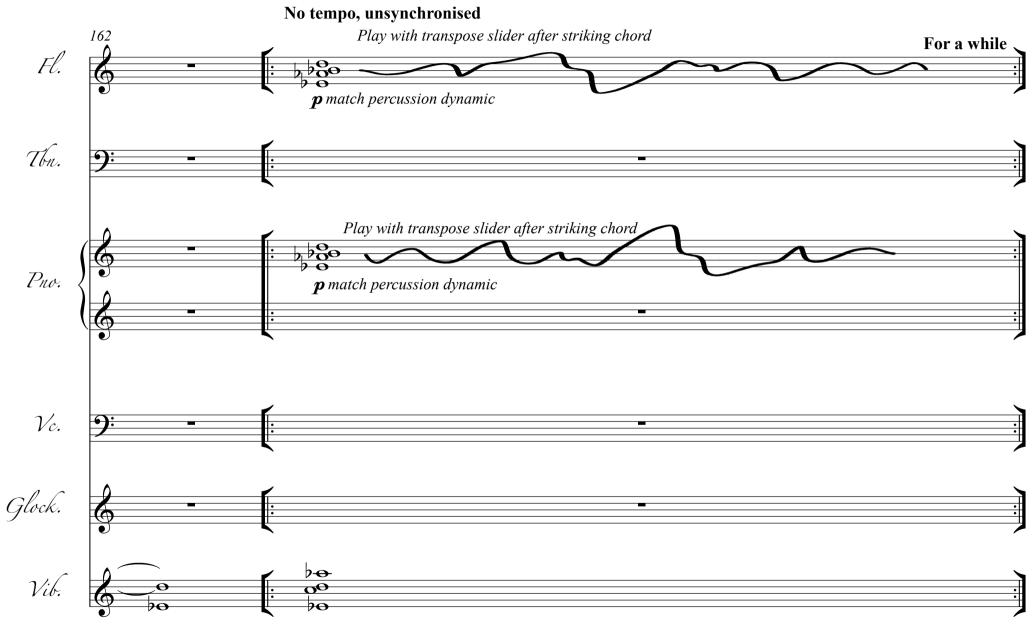

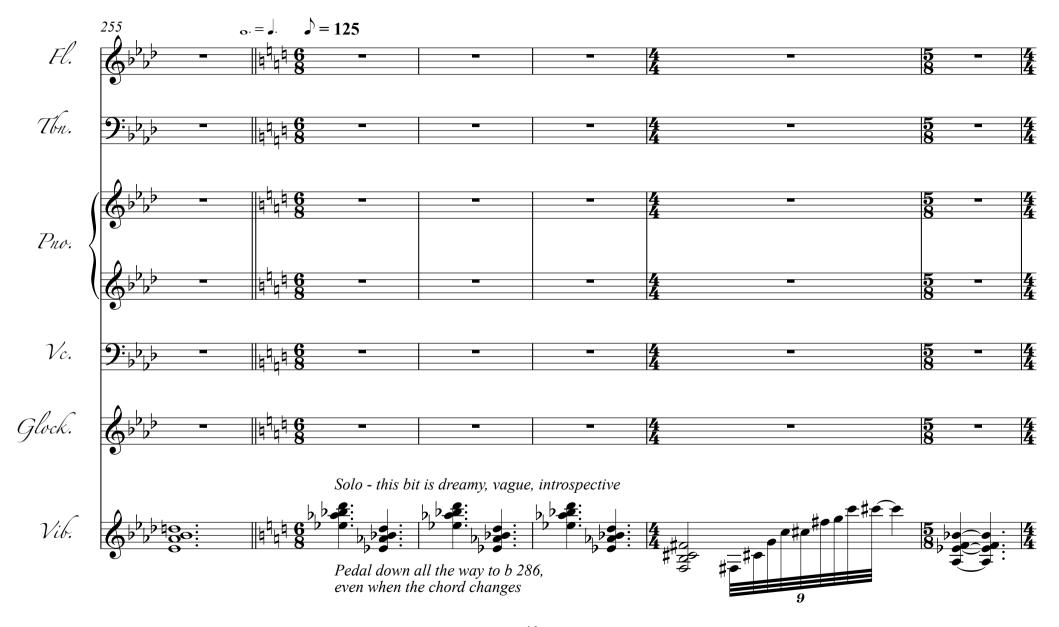

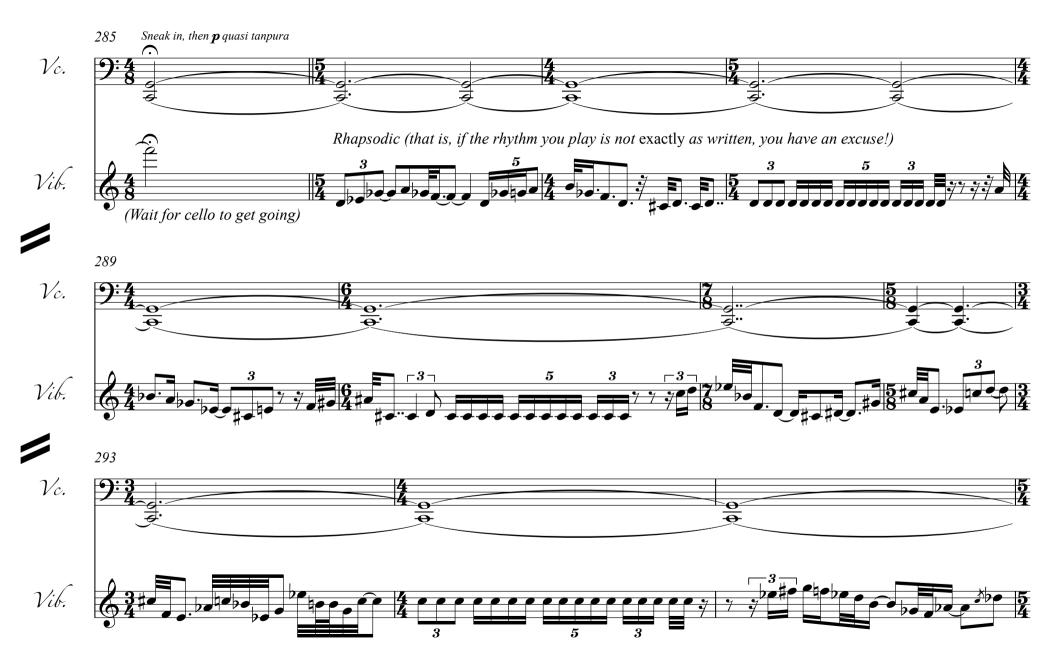

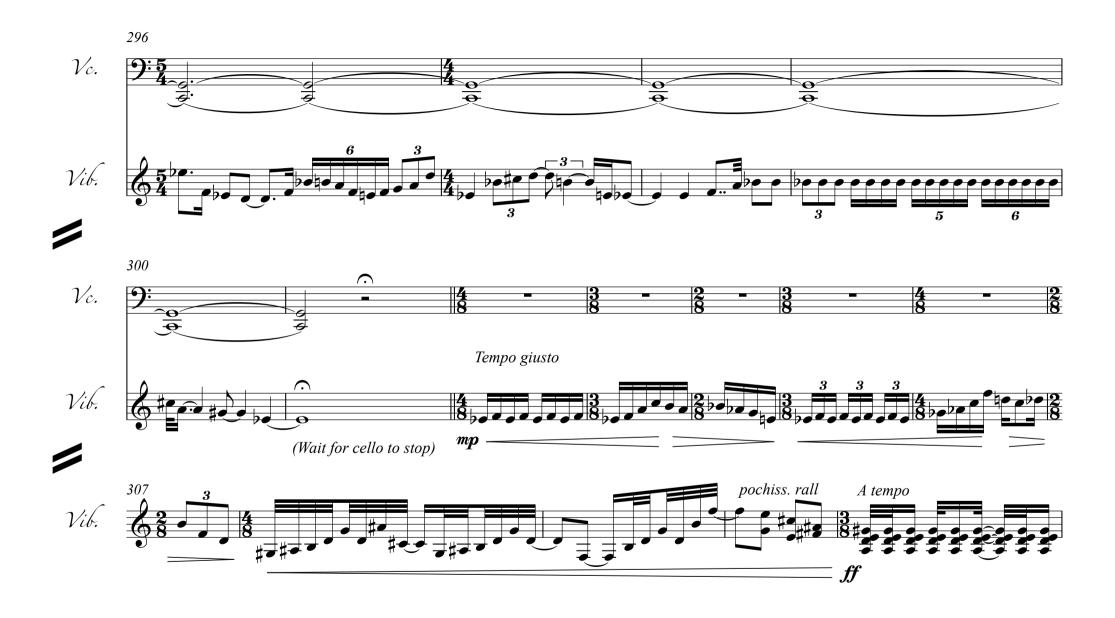

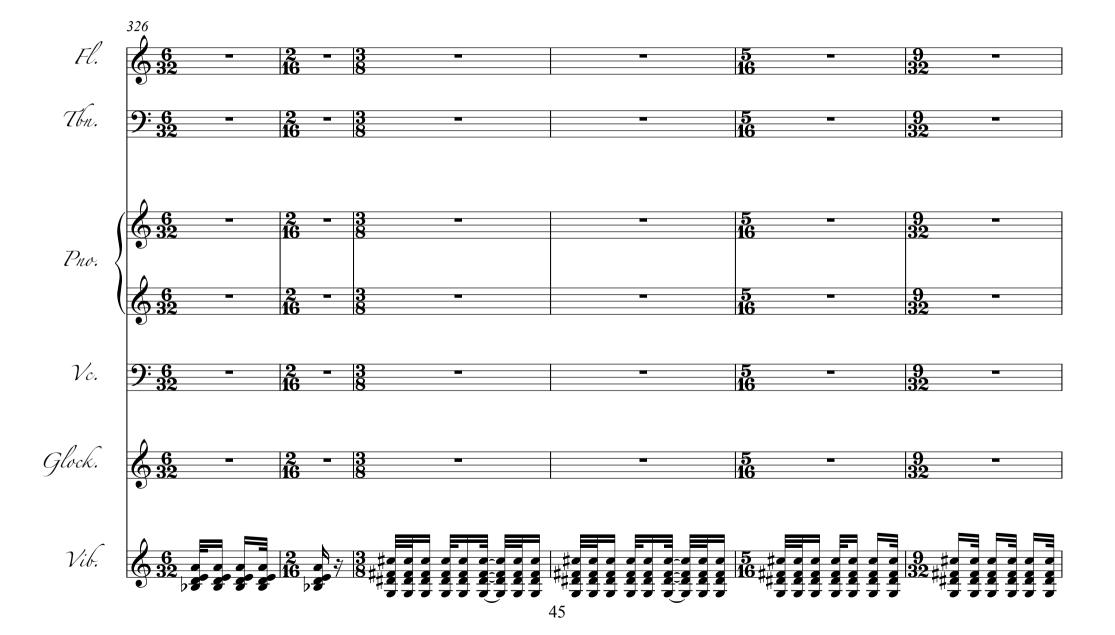

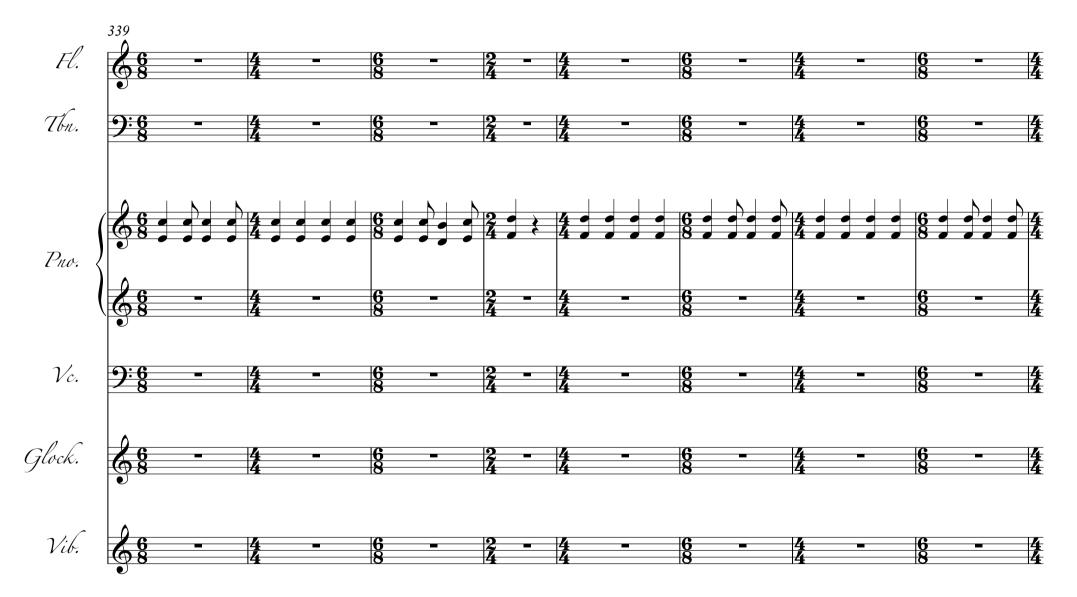

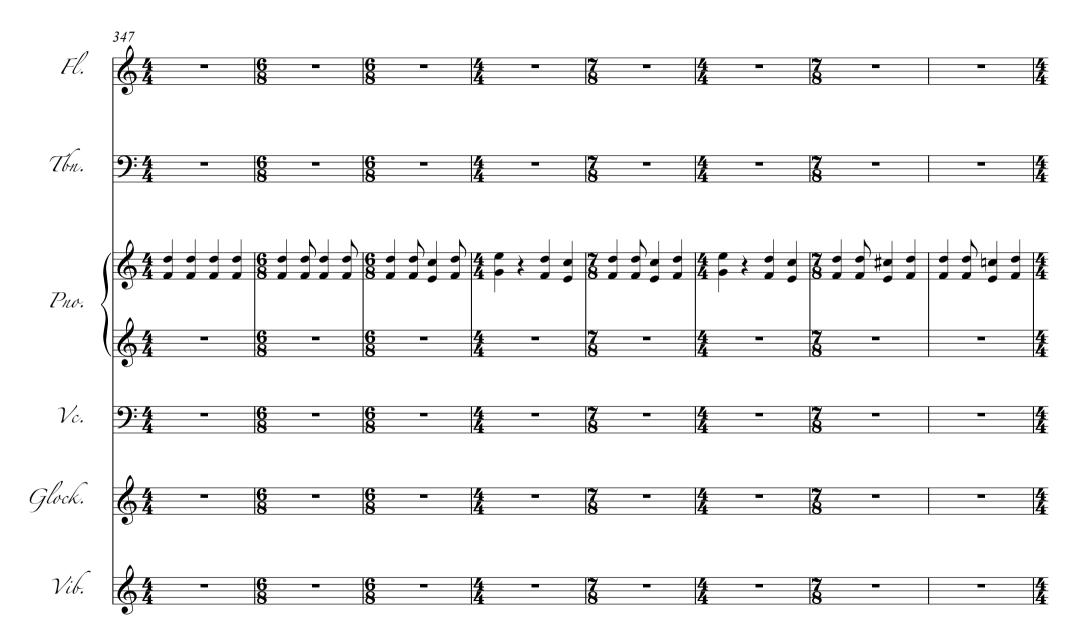

J = 266 - Absolutely no slower! Two dynamics, loud and louder, 332 make up your own mind  $V_c$ .

IV - Steadily Stop

Afterword

This was commissioned by Symposia and performed by them as part of Glasgow University's Musica Nova festival on 10/6/2006. At the time I struggled to write a programme note, and I'm still a little reluctant to do so. Essentially a deeply sad and personal piece concerning the split personality of the contemporary composer. On the one hand, the need to be seen as a proper modern composer; an original musical language for every piece, new thinking everywhere, if the audience feel bored and confused they should educate themselves. On the other hand, Tunes You Love To Sing; all those bits of music which get left off the list of works, marches, waltzes, jazz riffs, classroom games, theatre pieces...